Previously released as singles, in Fish Tales 1, find all six of the original novellas by C. A. Clark, P. A. Copeland, Sharon Higa, Tabitha Baumander, Pete Clark, and Keith Milstead published by J Ellington Ashton Press. All original covers are here. Included are scary fish poetry by D. Jonathan Brudie, released for the first time. These novellas cover fish (and humans) behaving badly in a world of water; beware of the water as monsters from the deep swim through these pages. Catch the big one at your own risk in Fishy Tales; find out the deadly secret that lives in The Pond; discover revenge and regret with I See Monsters. Pete Clark, noted for humor, dares the reader in To Fish Oar Not to Fish; we find there is indeed a Fish to Die For, and the reader is cautioned about swimming at The Dam. Six creepy stories from six expert horror writers plus a set of poems that will...
